

I signed Murphy up for the Cautious to Confident Class admittedly skeptical that it would help as Murphy had already completed several training classes with other trainers with little improvement. I was pleasantly surprised to see that, from the very first class, Murphy showed great progress. Kathy's confidence building exercises each week continued to build Murphy's self-assurance. In addition, I was able to learn what I should be doing to help Murphy become more comfortable in different situations. Best of all, Murphy had a great time and looked forward to the class every week. I highly recommend Kathy and her Cautious to Confidence class to anyone whose dog is either shy or fearful.
